

E

541

E<sub>13</sub>W<sub>3</sub>

LIBRARY OF CONGRESS.

Chap. E 541

Shelf . E 13 W 3

UNITED STATES OF AMERICA.

EAST MAINE

CONFERENCE SEMINARY

May Record.

BOSTON :

PRINTED BY ALBERT J. WRIGHT,

79 MILK STREET, COR. FEDERAL STREET.

1877.

EAST MAINE

CONFERENCE SEMINARY

May Record.

Nathan B. Webb
"

6.6
5551

BOSTON :

PRINTED BY ALBERT J. WRIGHT,

79 MILK STREET, COR. FEDERAL STREET.

1877.

CONFIDENTLY hoping that my fellow-students and their friends will receive this little compilation with that charity first efforts merit, it is respectfully submitted.

I wish to express thanks for aid and suggestions, to all who proffered such; and I am especially grateful to her whose labor and advice have helped so much to make the work a pleasant one.

N. B. WEBB,

Deer Island, Boston Harbor.

WAR RECORD.

---

SIXTEEN years ago, civil war burst upon our land, the country was shaken from centre to circumference, and our school was summoned to do its duty. With the first months of the spring of 1861, many had left for the field, and ere the first blossoms had appeared we received news of the fall of some of our fellow students. The "East Maine Conference Seminary" was taking position for participation in the bloody drama, and its luminous record began with the death of Sergeant Smart at the head of his company, in the swamps of the Chickahominy. All through those summer and autumn months, our student ranks were depleting to swell the soldier ranks. Those who daily went to and fro on the hill, who declaimed "Spartacus," or "Bingen on the Rhine" from the chapel platform, or laboriously conned Greek tenses and anathematized quadratics, followed each other from the school without a day's intervention; and in reply to inquiries about their empty seats, "gone to the war" was heard. As they stepped over the threshold, their paths diverged, extending in a hundred directions, from the Potomac to the Rio Grande, from the Atlantic to the Mississippi.

It is with most filial regard that I offer you a meagre account of their war-life. History it is not,—each had his own, which is most truthfully written in the hearts and affections of those who loved him. Our honor to the living can add nothing to their renown; our tribute to the dead can add nothing to their honor.

ADELBERT AMES.

Cadet at the United States Military Academy from July 1, 1856, to May 6, 1861, when he was graduated and promoted in the army to Second Lieutenant, Second Artillery. Served during the Rebellion, 1861-66: in drilling volunteers at Washington, D.C., May-July, 1861; in the Manassas campaign of July, 1861, being engaged in the battle of Bull Run, where he was wounded; disabled by wound, July 22, to September 4, 1861; in the defenses of Washington, D.C. September, 1861, to March, 1862; in the Virginia Peninsula campaign, commanding Battery, March-August, 1862, being engaged in the siege of Yorktown, battles of Gaines's Mill and Malvern Hill; in command of Regiment, Fifth Corps, in the Maryland campaign, September-November, 1862, being engaged in the battle of Antietam, and march to Falmouth, Va., October-November, 1862; in Rappahannock campaign, December, 1862, to June, 1863, being engaged in the battles of Fredericksburgh and Chancellorsville as Acting Aide-de-Camp to Major-General Meade, and Beverly Ford, in command of Brigade, Eleventh Corps; in the Pennsylvania campaign, being engaged in the battle of Gettysburgh; in operations in the Department of the South, August, 1863, to April 19, 1864; in command of Division or Brigade, Eighteenth Army Corps, in operations before Petersburg, April 25, to September 17, 1864, being engaged in the action of Port Walthall Junction, and battle of Cold Harbor; in command of Division, Tenth Army Corps, October 10, to December 2, 1864, before Petersburg, Va., being engaged in the actions of Darbytown Road; in command of Division, Twenty-fourth Army Corps, December 2, 1864, to April, 1865, being engaged in the first expedition to Fort Fisher, and on the second expedition, participating in the assault and capture of the fort, and in operations in North Carolina, January-April, 1865; in command of Division of Tenth Corps, April-May, 1865, and of Tenth Army Corps, May 12, to July 28, 1865, in North Carolina, and of the district of Western South Carolina, September 5, 1865, to April 30, 1866. Mustered out of volunteer service, April 30, 1866.

PROMOTIONS : —

First Lieutenant, Fifth Artillery, May 14, 1861.

Brevet Major, July 21, 1861.

Brevet Lieutenant-Colonel, July 1, 1862.

Colonel of Twentieth Maine Volunteers, August 29, 1862.

Brigadier-General United States Volunteers, May 20, 1863.

Brevet Colonel, July 1, 1863.

Captain of Fifth Artillery, June 17, 1864.

Brevet Major-General, United States Volunteers, January 15, 1865.

Brevet Brigadier-General, United States Army, March 13, 1865.

Brevet Major-General, United States Army, March 13, 1865.

Lieutenant-Colonel, Twenty-fourth Infantry, July 28, 1866.

General AMES was appointed by the President, Provisional Governor of Mississippi, in June, 1868, and commander of the Department of Mississippi, March, 1869. He was elected United States Senator from that State in 1870, and Governor of the State in 1873.

D. MASON ALLEN.

Enlisted in the Fourteenth Maine, Christmas, 1861, and died, from disease contracted in the Army, October 14, 1862.

Lieutenant M. H. ADAMS, Fourteenth Maine Infantry.

Chaplain A. S. ADAMS, Eighteenth Maine Infantry.

A. P. ATHERTON, Second Maine Infantry.

L. P. ABBOTT, Sixth Maine Infantry.

CHARLES ALLEN, Tenth Maine Infantry.

S. P. AYER, Ninth Maine Infantry.

J. C. ANDREWS, unassigned.

JOSEPH AREY, State Guards.

SMITH G. BAILEY.

Lieutenant BAILEY joined the Fifth Maine, April 1, 1861, and was appointed duty Sergeant; promoted to Second Lieutenant, October, 1862; wounded at battle of Chancellorsville, May 3, 1863, in the leg, from the effects of which he died, May 30. Lieutenant BAILEY was a graduate of Tufts College, class of '59, and gave promise of a speedy rise in the scholarly world. In the service he immediately attracted the attention of his superior officers, and his death ended what promised to be a brilliant military career. The following is an extract from his diary: "Sunday, October 19, 1862.—To-day is the anniversary of the birth of my little boy, now four years old. It seems but a few days since I lay upon the sofa, just recovering from a fever, and heard his first salutation as he made his debut upon this stage of life. Four years! What a change has that time made in my condition, and that of the nation! Then dwelling in the sunshine of domestic happiness, peace all around; now in the din of tumultuous war, deprived of the dear comforts of home. May He who holds all nations in the hollow of His hand bring us safely through the great trial."

CHARLES A. BAILEY.

Sergeant BAILEY became a member of the Thirtieth Maine, February 3, 1864; was shortly after made Regimental Quartermaster-Sergeant; and was mustered out, August 20, 1865. In a letter, Mr. BAILEY says: "My 'record' is something I have never considered of sufficient importance to make a note of. I was glad at the time to be able to serve the country, in a very humble capacity even, and did so. Having tried to discharge my duty to the country, I settled down after the war, upon the consciousness of having done what I could. Neither the country nor my fellow-men owe me anything for that service, and I make no claims for recognition as a soldier." Mr. BAILEY is now practising law at Oldtown, Maine.

JOHN L. BLAKE.

Became a member of the Seventh Maine Volunteers, August 18th, 1861; was soon promoted to Corporal, and after serving through the Peninsula campaign, and participating in every battle of the Seven Days' Fight, died of malarial fever, there contracted, September 23, 1863.

ALFRED E. BUCK.

Colonel BUCK was mustered into the service December 4, as Captain, in the Thirteenth Maine. In February, 1862, was appointed Lieutenant-Colonel of the Ninety-first United States Colored Troops, and to the command of Forts Macomb and Bienvenue; August 15, 1864, was assigned to command of Fifty-first United States Colored Troops. After the capture of Mobile, Colonel BUCK was appointed Inspector-General of Division on the Staff of General Hawkins, and was for a year member of a board for examination of officers for promotion. Was also member of Military Commission for trial of civilians, under the military government of the Southern States. Colonel BUCK was through most of the southern campaigns, participating in the attack upon Fort Blakely, by which Mobile fell into our hands, leading his command, and capturing 2,500 men. For "gallant and meritorious services" on this occasion, he was brevetted Colonel. Colonel BUCK is now Clerk of United States and District Courts, at Atlanta, Ga., and Treasurer of the Tecumseh Iron Works, Alabama.

DANIEL D. BLAISDELL.

Became a member of the Eighth Maine, August 28, 1861, and was discharged for disability, February 5, 1862; died February 12, 1867, from disease contracted in the service.

JOSEPH H. BEALE.

Lieutenant BEALE became a member of the Thirty-first Maine, February 29, 1864; was promoted to Corporal, May 3, to Sergeant, June 21, to First Sergeant, September 25, 1864, and to Lieutenant, January 21, 1865; was wounded, May 31, 1864, and mustered out of the service, August 25, 1865; now pastor of Methodist Church at Kensington, Conn.

GEO. H. M. BARRETT.

Mr. BARRETT was a member of the original District of Columbia Cavalry, enlisting, January 19, 1864, and being appointed Sergeant; he was transferred to the First Maine Cavalry, in September, following, and was discharged, August 12, 1865; now practising law at Rockport, Maine.

WILLIAM B. BAKER.

Sergeant BAKER became a member of the First Maine Cavalry, October 1, 1861; he was made Commissary Sergeant of his Company, and was constantly with the regiment until May 11, 1864; in the fight of that date at Goodall's Tavern, one of the most spirited cavalry engagements of the war, he was wounded in the left leg, just below the knee, the bone being completely shattered; he was in the act of mounting, and rode nearly a mile, when the suffering became so intense that he was obliged to dismount. Having no ambulances, it was necessary to leave him, and it was with many misgivings that I secured a mattress from a house, and left him on the piazza under the lindens. This house was the residence of Dr. Canthorn, who, though he had an only son in the Confederate service, was too much of a gentleman, and too true a physician, to fail to do all in his power for the "blue jacket;" and his wife and daughters vied in their attentions. The neighbors for miles around came to converse with the Yankee soldier at Dr. Canthorn's, and went away with a different impression of that species of the human race. Six weeks he was watched and nursed by the family, and every page of his diary attests their unwearied kindness. One of the neighbors, deeply embittered against northern soldiers, went to Richmond and reported that "Dr. Canthorn, out at Chickahominy, had a Yankee soldier, giving him the best the house afforded, and he would get well if he was not moved." Libby Prison authorities sent for the soldier. The good doctor accompanied him all the way, after tearful farewells from the family. June 22 he was received into the hospital; gangrene soon attacked his wound, and he died August 10. Dr. Canthorn's family have since been visited by Sergeant BAKER's sister, and that acquaintance, with subsequent correspondence, has woven at least one strong thread towards reuniting the embittered sections of a common country.

A. B. BAKER.

Mr. BAKER became a member of the gallant Third Maine Battery, in November, 1861, and took an active part in that lively campaign in the Shenandoah Valley. Promoted to Corporal, and discharged on account of disability, January 1, 1863. Grocer, 204 Broadway Square, Chelsea, Mass.

JOSEPH A. BAKER.

Lieutenant BAKER enlisted, August 18, 1862, in the Twenty-second Maine Infantry. He was off duty, most of the time, from diphtheria and swamp-fever, and was discharged, July 3, 1863. He died from disease contracted in the army, July 31, 1874.

T. J. BATCHELDER.

Dr. BATCHELDER enlisted in the First Maine Cavalry, September 30, 1861. After participating in some of the many hard campaigns and sanguinary battles of that regiment, was wounded, June 15, 1864, and was discharged, November 25, 1864. Is now a practising physician in Surry, Maine, having been graduated at the Eclectic University, Philadelphia.

D. W. BILLINGS.

Mr. BILLINGS became a soldier September 10, 1862, as a member of the Twenty-sixth Maine. Promoted to Corporal in November, 1862, and discharged August 17, 1863. August 9, 1864, entered the Navy. Detailed to the United States Steamer "Rhode Island," and was present at the two bombardments of Fort Fisher, and at that most gallant engagement off Mobile. Discharged again June 23, 1865. Farmer and Trial Justice at Swanville, and "loves good old Maine best of all, having compared her with twenty-two other States as a resident."

HENRY BARKER.

Was a member of the First District of Columbia Cavalry, enlisting February 16, 1864. He died in hospital at Washington, D.C., April 26.

C. O. BROWN, Thirty-first Maine Infantry.

JOHN BROWN, United States Navy.

H. W. BROWN, Thirteenth Maine Infantry.

EDWARD W. BROWN, Fourteenth Maine Infantry.

C. L. BLOOD, Thirty-first Maine Infantry.

JAMES V. BARTLETT, Twenty-sixth Maine Infantry.

Chaplain GEO. W. BARTLETT, Fourteenth Maine Infantry.

Captain F. H. BLACKMAN, Fourteenth Maine Infantry.

FAYETTE BUKER, First Maine Cavalry.

CYRUS BUKER, First Maine Cavalry.

HARVEY BARKER, First District of Columbia Cavalry.

GEORGE BARKER, First District of Columbia Cavalry.

CHARLES W. BOWDEN, Third Maine Infantry.

Lieutenant M. C. BURGESS, Third Maine Battery.

Lieutenant G. F. BURGESS, Nineteenth Maine Infantry.
 CHARLES W. BREWSTER, United States Navy.
 Lieutenant W. C. BAILEY, Twentieth Maine Infantry.
 WOODBURY BAILEY, Seventh Maine Infantry.
 BILLINGS BRASTOW, Ninth Maine Infantry.
 LEONARD BOLTON, Eleventh Maine Infantry.
 ISAAC A. D. BLAKE, Sixteenth Maine Infantry.
 H. T. BACHELDER, Twenty-second Maine Infantry.
 ORA W. BRAGDON, Twenty-second Maine Infantry.

JAMES A. COLSON.

Mr. COLSON left his scythe and rake in the field, and on the twenty-second of July, 1862, made one of the "three hundred thousand strong" answering to their country's call. He became a member of Company E, Nineteenth Maine, taking part in its various battles and campaigns, till, on that memorable march to Gettysburgh, — the highwater mark of the rebellion, — he was sunstruck, June 15, 1863, which necessitated his discharge, in January, 1864. Book-keeper, Searsport, Maine.

GEORGE A. CRAWFORD.

Being but sixteen years of age when the war closed, Mr. CRAWFORD'S service was necessarily very short. Enlisted in the State Guards, September 3, 1864, and mustered out, November 7, 1864. Chaplain in United States Navy, stationed at Charlestown Navy Yard.

MELVILLE CRAWFORD.

Became a member of the Fifteenth Maine, March 13, 1865, and discharged, March 8, 1866.

FRED A. CURTIS.

Enlisted in the United States Navy, August 28, 1864, and was discharged, June 14, 1865.

J. N. CURTIS.

Enlisted in the Twenty-eighth Maine, September 7, 1863; discharged, on account of "physical disability," December 21, same year. Frescoer, Cambridge, Mass.

CHARLES W. CLEMENTS.

Became a member of the Sixteenth Maine, July 1, 1862. Owing to partial disability, was transferred to Veteran Reserve Corps, and discharged, July, 1865. Publisher of Eastern Examiner, and book and job printer, at Hallowell, Maine.

JOSEPH F. CLEMENTS.

Enlisted as a member of the Fourteenth Maine, taking the rank of Sergeant, August 11, 1863; was promoted to a Captaincy in a colored regiment; discharged, March 7, 1866. Served in the campaigns on the Mississippi and before Richmond, in the winter of 1864-5. Engaged in dairy farming at Farmingdale, Maine.

AUGUSTUS CLEMENT.

It is with a deep personal feeling that I speak of "Gus," as we used to call him. He was a room-mate of mine, and I soon learned that beneath that outspoken, square-cornered exterior lay a true soul. Those who knew him will testify to his manliness, and his remarkable tenacity for doing what he thought was duty, regardless of consequences to himself. This trait was the cause of his early death. He became a member of the Third Maine Battery, in November, 1861. He was Company Clerk, and the business being left entirely to him, when he was almost prostrated with the "swamp fever," he would not give up the position, being fearful that others' ignorance of his duties would cause injustice to his comrades. He was not ordered to report to the Surgeon, and when, as he was barely able to wield a pen, General McDowell came to inspect the Battery, he ordered him home peremptorily. Of him, as of so many others, it was said "too late," he living but twelve days after his arrival. He died on the fourth of April, 1862. He was a masterly student of Shakespeare, having whole pages at his tongue's end; he almost invariably quoted from him in application to the remarks of others.

W. S. CODMAN.

WILL CODMAN, by which cognomen he used to be known, was a member of the Twenty-sixth Infantry. He was soon promoted to Corporal, and subsequently to Hospital Steward and Assistant Surgeon, being stationed at Baton Rouge. He was honorably discharged. Was graduated M.D. at Bowdoin. His skill was being widely recognized, when he suddenly died of congestion of the brain, in January, 1873.

MELVILLE B. COOK.

Sergeant COOK was enlisted in the First Maine Cavalry, September 26, 1861. Promoted to Corporal, September 1, 1862; to Sergeant, February 1, 1864; and to First Sergeant, September 5, 1864. Was made Ordnance Sergeant of Second Cavalry Brigade, Army of Potomac, September 20, 1864. Wounded at Stoneman's Raid, May 3, 1863, at Trevyllion Station, June 11, 1864, and at Farmville, April 7, 1865. Was mustered out August 1, 1865.

GUSTAVUS B. CHADWICK.

Mr. CHADWICK enlisted in the United States Navy, August 16, 1864, being detailed to duty on board the United States Steamship "Rhode Island." After service at Fort Fisher, Mobile, and on convoys for Mail Steamers to Aspinwall, he was discharged, June 23, 1865. Pastor Methodist Episcopal Church, Weeks Mills, Maine.

LAFAYETTE CARVER.

Lieutenant CARVER enlisted August 12, 1862, in the Nineteenth Maine. His service extended through all the hard and bloody campaigns from Fredericksburgh to Gettysburgh, and back again to Cold Harbor, where he received a wound in the shoulder, which proved fatal, July 4, 1864. He was made Lieutenant, February 2, 1864.

D. B. COLCORD.

Dr. COLCORD became a member of the Eighteenth Maine Infantry in July, 1862. Soon after was transferred to the Signal Corps, United States Army, and detailed as leader of the Post Band of that branch of the service. Discharged, July, 1865. Was graduated from Dartmouth College in 1867; from Bellevue Medical College in 1875; and is now a highly successful physician in Cedar Falls, Iowa.

AMASA S. CONDON.

Dr. CONDON enlisted in May, 1861, in the Sixth Maine, being the second man to sign the roll from his town. Discharged, July 27, 1862. Resident surgeon, Union Pacific Railroad, Ogden, Utah.

ELI A. CHASE.

Dr. CHASE enlisted in the Twenty-ninth Maine, February 22, 1863, and was discharged, February 22, 1865; both events coming on the anniversary of Washington's birth. He served in the Shenandoah under Shields, and in the South under General Q. A. Gilmore. Dr. CHASE was graduated at the New York Medical College, and is now in practise in Brockton, Mass.

JULIUS E. CLARK.

Dr. CLARK became a member of the Fourth Maine Infantry, April, 1861, and appointed Regimental Commissary Sergeant. July 25, was appointed Hospital Steward. July 22, 1863, was commissioned Captain in the Eightieth United States Colored Infantry; then brevetted Major, and mustered out, in March, 1867. Last six months of service was detailed to duty with Ninth United States Cavalry. Was one of two selected by General Sheridan for a Captaincy in the United States Army, but was not eligible, not having served two years in Cavalry. Dr. CLARK saw a variety of service, being on line, field, and staff duty, in infantry and cavalry, volunteers and regulars, white and black commands. Was graduated at Georgetown, D. C., Medical College; became a member of the Board of Health, and City Physician, New Orleans; and is now resident physician at Mississippi quarantine station.

N. B. COLBY, United States Navy.

ALONZO COLBY, First Maine Cavalry.

I. N. CHASE, First Maine Cavalry.

W. F. CHASE, Second Maine Infantry.

C. W. CAMPBELL, Fourteenth Maine Infantry.

Captain W. R. CURRIER, Thirty-first Maine Infantry.

E. CURRIER, Second Maine Infantry.

CHARLES J. COBB, Seventeenth Maine Infantry.

GEORGE E. COBB, Seventeenth Maine Infantry.

SAMUEL W. CLARK, Eighteenth Maine Infantry.

WILLIAM B. COOMBS, Twenty-fourth Maine Infantry.

Lieut. SYLVESTER CUMMINGS, Twenty-ninth Maine Infantry.

FRANK A. COLKINS, First Veteran Battery.

A. G. CURTIS, State Guards.

GEORGE E. DODGE.

Mr. DODGE enlisted as a member of that gallant organization, the First Maine Heavy Artillery, in July, 1862. Promoted to First Sergeant, in March, 1863; to Second Lieutenant, in June, 1864; and received a commission as First Lieutenant, in July, following. Lieutenant DODGE participated in all the hard-fought battles and campaigns of that Regiment, and was mustered out on expiration of term of service, in September, 1865. Lieutenant DODGE was seven times wounded, and carries four scars to attest his presence at the front. Landlord Wesleyan Grove House, Northport, Maine.

JOSEPH B. DOANE.

Enlisted in the Twenty-eighth Maine, September, 25, 1862, but never reached the front, dying of typhoid in New York, December 14, following.

ERASTUS A. DOE.

Enlisted as a member of the First Maine Cavalry, October 13, 1861. He was most of the time on detached service at Headquarters Second Division, Ninth Corps Infantry, and Third Brigade, Second Division, Cavalry Corps. He was not off duty an hour, and was mustered out of the service, June 5, 1865. Fruit farmer, at Vineland, N.J.

JAMES S. DYER.

Mr. DYER enlisted in the Navy in April, 1865; promoted to Carpenter's Mate, and discharged November, 1867. Follows a marine life, as ship's carpenter, sailing from Belfast, Maine.

JOHN W. DOLE, State Guards.

THOMAS DEVINS, Third Maine Battery.

T. E. DORR, Sixth Maine Infantry.

GEORGE A. DYER, Sixth Maine Infantry.

GEORGE W. DREW, Seventeenth Maine Infantry.

ISAAC DUNHAM, Eighteenth Maine Infantry.

MARK T. EMERSON.

Belonged to the Eighteenth Maine; enlisted August 19, 1862, and was appointed Sergeant; was wounded June 18, 1864, and died in consequence, July 5, following. His letters home ever had a cheerful, hopeful tone, and their burden was "when this cruel war is over, and I return to you, Molly." But that was not to be. Under date of June 5, 1864, he writes: "The coming struggle, 'tis thought, will be the most bloody in the war, as every inch of the ground is contested sharply. The rebels have massed, and pitched into us several times the past few days, but they do not budge us. We are now bound to see the end of this infernal rebellion, and I shall come home to you prouder than ever of the Star Spangled Banner." "June 10.—We are pushing them hard, Molly. Grant is the man. I am eager for the end. Many fall every day, but your Mark is yet unhurt. The struggle is fierce. In yesterday's fight four brothers gave up their lives, and the bullets which pierced their hearts sped on their way North, to reach hearts there." His last written words were, "be as calm as you can, Molly, and pray for me." The Surgeon of his Regiment writes: "Our country has called for the sacrifice of many noble hearts and lives since we parted at the Fort, in May,—among them all, for no one who did his duty more faithfully or conscientiously than your husband. I can bear witness to his soldierly qualities."

F. A. EDWARDS.

Enlisted as a member of the First Maine Heavy Artillery, June 15, 1862, receiving a Corporal's warrant. Appointed upon non-commissioned staff, as Band-master, January, 1863. Mustered out, May 14, 1865.

OTIS H. ELWELL.

Was a member of the Twenty-sixth Maine, having enlisted, October 13, 1862. He died at New Orleans, July 13, 1863, of disease contracted while a soldier.

JAMES D. ERSKINE.

Enlisted in the Fourth Maine, June 17, 1861. He was made Third Sergeant, and soon after promoted to First Lieutenant; November 1, 1861, he was commissioned Captain, serving with honor through the Peninsula campaign. Disease contracted from the hardships and exposures of the service sent him to the hospital, and resulted in his death, January 7, 1863. Major-General Berry writes: "For gallantry and bravery in the field, I know of no officer in that regiment, or any other, who excels him."

LEONARD EUSTIS, Tenth Maine Infantry.

GEORGE A. EMERSON, Twentieth Maine Infantry.

H. M. FOLSOM.

Enlisted in the Seventh Maine, in September, 1861, and was made Hospital Steward; promoted to Lieutenant, in January, 1862, serving in the Peninsula campaign, and resigned, on account of disability, in July of same year. Now a druggist at Richmond, Maine.

G. R. FERNALD.

Was a member of the Eighteenth Maine, enlisting, August 21, 1862; was commissioned Second Lieutenant, promoted to First Lieutenant, February 26, 1863, and to Captain, November 7, following. Passed through the campaign of 1864, having for its objective point Richmond, and was wounded in the charge before Petersburg, June 18, 1864; returned to service, and was mustered out September 11, 1865. Lumber manufacturer and dealer at Wilton, Maine.

A. G. FELLOWS.

Mr. FELLOWS was one of the early volunteers, having enlisted in the Second Maine, May 13, 1861; was commissioned First Lieutenant, and resigned in May, 1862, to be appointed First Lieutenant in the Fifty-sixth Massachusetts; was attached to Ninth Corps, Army of Potomac; was wounded, May 24, 1864, at Cold Harbor, and discharged in consequence, August 19, 1864.

SIMEON FOGG, Sixteenth Maine Infantry.

Sergeant B. F. FOGG, First Maine Cavalry.

H. M. FOLSOM, Seventeenth Maine Infantry.

JOSEPH FLYE, Seventeenth Maine Infantry.

AMOS S. GOODALE.

On the anniversary of Washington's birth, 1864, Mr. GOODALE became a member of the Thirty-first Maine Infantry. He was wounded at the siege of Petersburg, in September, 1864, and made a prisoner; soon after exchanged, and died at Annapolis, Md., January 7, 1865, not being able to survive the necessary amputation of a leg.

WALTER S. GOODALE.

Became a member of the Fourth Maine Regiment, November 1, 1861; was appointed Sergeant; served through the Peninsula campaign, also under General Pope; promoted to Second Lieutenant, September 8, 1862; while in command of his company at Fredericksburgh, December 13, 1862, was instantly killed, his superior officers having likewise fallen.

GREENLEAF A. GOODALE.

Enlisted in the Sixth Maine, May 7, 1861; promoted to Corporal, May 3, 1863, and made Sergeant, November 4; commissioned First Lieutenant, Fifth Regiment, Corps d'Afrique, November 22, 1863, and Captain in Seventy-seventh, January 18, 1864; November, 1866, was appointed First Lieutenant Twenty-third Infantry, U. S. A.; was promoted to Brevet-Captain and Major, and is at present with his regiment, at Prescott, Arizona.

FRED B. GINN.

Mr. GINN became a member of the Sixth Maine, April 16, 1861; was made First Sergeant, and promoted to Second Lieutenant, June 9, 1862. He served through the Peninsula campaign, second Bull Run, Fredericksburgh (participating in the famous charge upon St. Mary's Heights), and Gettysburgh. Was then detached on recruiting service for eight months, and commissioned Captain, November 27, 1863. Captain GINN was wounded in the arm at the Wilderness; made Brevet-Major, November 15, 1865. Mustered out of service, August 15, 1864. Mr. GINN is now a member of the book-publishing firm of Ginn Brothers, Boston, Mass.

MANLY S. GENN.

Mr. GENN was a member of the Twenty-sixth Maine Infantry, enlisting, September 10, 1862. He participated in the battles of the Louisiana campaign, including Port Hudson, and was discharged in August, 1863, upon expiration of term of service.

PASCAL P. GILMORE.

Mr. GILMORE enlisted as one of Company E, Sixteenth Maine, September 5, 1864, was promoted to Corporal, April 29, 1865, and participated in the closing battles of the war, about Richmond and Petersburg. Discharged, June 14, 1865.

Now farming at Dedham, Maine.

MYRON T. GILMORE.

Mr. GILMORE was but fourteen years of age when hostilities began, and was in a constant condition of regret until the day he became eighteen years of age, February 15, 1865, when he could enlist. He did so, becoming a member of the Fifteenth Maine. Discharged, in November, 1865. Mr. GILMORE is now occupied in converting spears into pruning hooks, and swords into plow-shares, at Dedham, Maine.

DANIEL H. GILMORE.

Mr. GILMORE became a member of the First District of Columbia Cavalry, March 16, 1864. He was promoted to Sergeant, May 1, 1864, and upon the consolidation of his regiment with the First Maine Cavalry, was made Regimental Quartermaster-Sergeant, in December, 1864. During Wilson's Raid, south of Petersburg, he was wounded in the left leg, June 25, 1864, and was seven days finding his way out of the enemy's lines. Discharged, August 1, 1865, and is now a broker at 59 and 61 Liberty Street, New York City.

KEYES GRANT.

Enlisted as a member of the Eighteenth Maine, August 11, 1862, and was made Corporal. He was promoted to Sergeant, in May, 1864, and was leading his company on that fatal June 18, when he was instantly killed. He lay where he fell, and was consigned to an unknown grave by stranger hands.

N. B. GRANT.

Mr. GRANT became a member of the Twenty-sixth Maine, September 10, 1862, and after serving through the Port Hudson and Red River campaigns, was discharged, August 17, 1876. Master mariner, South Hancock, Maine.

GEORGE GEYER, First Maine Cavalry.

O. B. GRANT, United States Navy.

JAMES C. GRANT, Fourteenth Maine Infantry.

W. H. GOODWIN, Fourth Maine Infantry.

H. N. GINN, Sixth Maine Infantry.

S. D. GIDDINGS, Twenty-fourth Maine Infantry.

FRED C. HOWES.

General U. S. Grant having been appointed Commander-in-Chief of the United States Armies, came to Virginia in April, 1864, to make his headquarters with the old Army of the Potomac. Having, as did Napoleon I., a decided faith in "strong battalions," he sent to the front many regiments doing garrison duty around Washington; among these, was the First Maine Heavy Artillery, afterwards known as the Eighteenth Maine Infantry, to which Captain HOWES belonged. The career of this regiment was destined to be short, bloody, and glorious. Having full ranks, it was nearly as large as some of the decimated brigades, and the officers and men being new to field warfare, were ignorant of the little subterfuges and expedients, by which many wounds are avoided and lives saved. At Spottsylvania, North Anna, Cold Harbor, and the siege of Petersburg, it suffered severely. Captain HOWES became a member of this gallant regiment, in July, 1862, was soon promoted to First Lieutenant, and in February, 1863, was commissioned as Captain. He at once evinced qualities of head and heart which secured to him the confidence of his superiors, and the respect of those under his command. Ardent, ambitious, and content with no inferior stand, he labored untiringly to make his company one of the best in the regiment. He well sustained the character of an excellent and brave officer, till he fell, in the line of duty, in that fearful assault before Petersburg. Left without support, he, and hundreds of his comrades, fell where they fought.

“Their’s not to make reply,
 Their’s not to reason why,
 Their’s but to do and die:
 Though some one had blundered.”

He was shot dead before Petersburg, June 18, 1864. In a brief month of active duty was concentrated the work and blood of a war. Mrs. Howes writes: “After that time — his being ordered to the front in May — I received only three short notes, written in pencil, but all were so cheerful and hopeful of the final success of the Union Army. In the ‘journal’ that came to us after his death, we learned something of the weary marches and the heart-sickening scenes that war brings.”

H. E. HALL.

Joined the Second Maine Battery, August 12, 1862, and was through all the campaigns and battles of the Army of the Potomac. Was promoted to Corporal, February 8, 1864, and mustered out of service, June 17, 1865. Agent of Howe Sewing Machine Company, Roseville, Illinois.

JAMES E. HALL.

Lieut. HALL was a member of that hard-fighting regiment, the Eighteenth Maine, having enlisted August 4, 1862. He was made Fourth Sergeant upon the organization of the regiment; First Sergeant, January 26, 1864; Second Lieutenant, March 23, 1864; and promoted to Regimental Quartermaster, May 11, 1864. His duty did not call him into action, but he volunteered in the attack upon Petersburg, June, 1864, during which he fell with so many of his comrades.

EDWIN P. HILL.

Mr. HILL became a member of the Eighteenth Maine Infantry, July 31, 1862. He participated in the severe initiatory campaign of his regiment, up to Cold Harbor, where he was wounded in the ankle. After recovering from his wound, was detailed as Ward Master in Lincoln General Hospital. January 1, 1865, was appointed to a position in the Quartermaster's department, and was on duty at Headquarters in Washington until discharged, August 13, 1865. Mr. HILL was Inspector-General of the Grand Army of the Republic, department of Maine, for two years, and is now Deputy Collector of Customs at Bucksport, Maine. Mr. HILL was an eye-witness to the assassination of President Lincoln.

ISAAC HILLS.

Became a member of the Nineteenth Maine, July 25, 1862; promoted to Sergeant; was wounded in right arm the second day of Gettysburgh, in the defense of "Little Round Top," and was discharged on account of wound, September, 1863.

EDGAR A. HANAKY.

Enlisted September 28, 1862, in the Twenty-eighth Maine; promoted to Sergeant, May 3, 1863. After term of service in the Twenty-eighth expired, he enlisted in the Second Maine Cavalry, and was appointed duty Sergeant. Thence he was transferred to the Navy, serving in Gulf Squadron, and discharged in June, 1864.

S. A. HOLDEN.

Enlisted in the First Maine Cavalry, September 20, 1861; was promoted to Corporal, and most of the time on detached service at Third Corps Headquarters, Army of the Potomac.

He was wounded with a sabre at Aldie, June 17, 1863, being pierced completely through, and falling into the enemy's hands. He survived, and did effective service afterwards. He was an anomaly in his utter indifference to danger of any kind or imminence. Was mustered out, November 25, 1864.

SEWALL L. HEYWOOD.

Mr. HEYWOOD enlisted May 18, 1861, as a member of the Sixth Maine. He was wounded at second Fredericksburgh, May 3, 1863, and at Rappahannock Station, November 7, 1863. He was mustered out, August 15, 1864.

AUGUSTINE P. HEYWOOD.

"GUS," by which name he was affectionately known to all his cotemporary students, was a member of the Thirty-first Maine, enlisting, April 9, 1864. At the Mine explosion in front of Petersburg, he was one of the volunteers to cut away the abattis in front of the enemy's work. All those at work with him were killed, and he worked on alone, seeming to bear a charmed life. He was successful, and was ordered to the rear, that service excusing him from duty for the rest of the day. But he persisted in remaining at the front, saying, "Wherever my company goes I go," and he was captured in that Balaklava charge into the crater. He was taken to prison at Danville, Va., where he died after eight months confinement.

C. L. HEYWOOD.

Brother of the two preceding, enlisted in the Eighteenth Maine, July 24, 1862. At the attack upon the enemy's lines, in front of Petersburg, June 18, he was wounded in the breast and hip; was made Corporal, September 1, 1864, Sergeant-Major, December 1, 1864, and First Lieutenant, February 16, 1865; was Acting Ordnance Officer at expiration of service, September 11, 1865. Now in business at Topeka, Kansas.

G. E. HITCHCOCK.

Was appointed Captain's Clerk in the United States Navy, April, 1863. Was on duty in the ship "Mystic," till discharged in August, 1864. Dealer in ship stores and chandlery, 174 Commercial Street, Boston.

W. M. HITCHCOCK.

Mr. HITCHCOCK left the banking business, in August, 1862, for the front, joining the Twentieth Maine Infantry. After participating in the sanguinary engagements of Antietam, second Fredericksburgh, and others, he was discharged for disability, and is now a shipbuilder at Bath, Maine.

JOHN E. HALEY.

Mr. HALEY became a member of the Sixteenth Maine. As he writes: "One night I listened to expressions of fear from some old gentlemen, that a draft would have to be ordered. Tomorrow's my birthday, I said, and I'll do a good thing." Daylight found him many miles on the way to the recruiting rendezvous. He was wounded in the groin at Spottsylvania, and discharged in consequence, June 15, 1865. Mr. HALEY is postmaster at Forest City, Maine, and writes that he is fighting rum and immorality now, as he fought treason and rebellion years ago.

R. J. HARMON, Thirteenth Maine Infantry.

C. A. HOLT, Fourteenth Maine Infantry.

C. B. HINKLEY, Fifteenth Maine Infantry.

GEORGE HARDING, Sixteenth Maine Infantry.

J. W. HARRIMAN, Sixteenth Maine Infantry.
 F. W. HILL, Seventeenth Maine Infantry.
 J. M. HIGGINS, Nineteenth Maine Infantry.
 C. C. HASKELL, Nineteenth Maine Infantry.
 G. W. HOWE, Twenty-second Maine Infantry.
 J. C. HUTCHINS, Twenty-eighth Maine Infantry.
 A. A. HALL, Thirty-first Maine Infantry.
 H. E. HALL, Second Maine Battery.

OTIS F. INGRAHAM.

Enlisted, May 7, 1861, as a member of the Second Kansas Infantry. Served in the Trans-Mississippi department during the battles and campaigns of Carthage, Wilson's Springs, Dug Springs, etc. Now practising law at Colorado City.

DANIEL W. INGERSOLL.

Enlisted, September 7, 1861, in the Eighth Maine; promoted to First Sergeant, and was discharged at Beaufort, S.C., for general disability, October 27, 1862. Manufacturer of lumber at East Saginaw, Michigan.

GEORGE K. INGALLS, Second Maine Infantry.
 F. G. INGALLS, Eighth Maine Infantry.

CHARLES A. JACKSON.

Mr. JACKSON enlisted in the Eighteenth Maine, August 1, 1862, and was made a Corporal. He was taken prisoner, August 23, 1864, before Petersburg, and was confined in Libby Prison, and at Andersonville, till the fifth of December, when he was paroled. He died of scurvy and chronic diarrhœa, contracted at the latter place, eight days after his release.

IRVING C. JACKSON.

A brother of Charles A., was a member of the same regiment, enlisting January 1, 1864. He was wounded on the memorable eighteenth of June, before Petersburg, in the leg and in the thigh, the latter wound disabling him. He was discharged in May, 1865. Carpenter, Somerville, Mass.

JONAH T. JAMESON.

Was a member of the Twenty-first Maine Infantry, enlisting September 10, 1862, and was made Second Sergeant upon the organization of his company. Was in the campaign about Port Hudson, and discharged August 25, 1863.

RICHARD JONES, Twenty-fifth Maine Infantry.

B. P. KNOWLES.

Sergeant KNOWLES became a member of the First Maine Cavalry, September, 1861. He was one of those men who seemed by especial traits adapted to a military life, and his service warranted the belief. He was soon promoted in the ranks, and, but for a long imprisonment, would have risen higher. He was taken prisoner at Aldie, and was at Libby Prison and Belle Isle with myself, being released at the same time. Being taunted in a most insulting manner by Lieutenant Latouché, the Adjutant of the prison, he knocked him down a flight of stairs, at the head of which he happened to be standing. For this, KNOWLES was bucked and gagged, and stood up near a faucet of running water for seven hours. The running water just without reach, aggravated his terrible thirst, and he became so weak that he fell over on the floor, all the while being the recipient of the ribald jests of the officers of the prison. When released he was bastinadoed until insensible, and then put in a cell for the night. He was again captured in April, 1864, and was in Andersonville Prison fourteen months, dying shortly after being released.

JABEZ W. KING.

Mr. KING enlisted, May 13, 1861, as a member of the Second Maine. He was made a prisoner at first Bull Run; confined at Richmond five months, at Tuscaloosa, Ala., three months, and at Salisbury, N.C., under Wirz, three months. Was discharged, June 11, 1863. Clerk of American Express Company, Toledo, Ohio.

AMOS H. KING.

Mr. KING belonged to the Third Maine Battery. Enlisted, November 14, 1861, and was discharged for disability, December 2, 1862. Grocer, Brewer, Maine.

JAMES KENNEY, United States Navy.

FRANK KNOWLTON, Sixteenth Maine Infantry.

W. W. KITTREDGE, Nineteenth Maine Infantry.

CHARLES W. LOWELL.

Entered the military service as Captain in the Eighty-eighth United States Colored Infantry; promoted to Major, Lieutenant-Colonel, and Colonel of Regiment. Served in the Southern campaigns, being mustered out March 1, 1867. Was Assistant Judge Advocate General, and Provost Marshal General on General Canby's Staff during the closing months of the war; made Judge of the Provost Court in New Orleans, which position he held till abolition of the Court. Settled at Shreveport, Louisiana, and became a member of the State Legislature, being elected Speaker of the House three successive years. Was postmaster of New Orleans from March, 1869, to March, 1873. Elected to the House from Jefferson Parish in 1872, and was Speaker for the session of 1873-74. Attorney-at-Law, New Orleans.

KENNEY C. LOWELL.

Mr. LOWELL became one of the Eleventh Maine, in September, 1861, and was promoted, May, 1864; was wounded in the battle of Strawberry Plains. He was captured by the enemy twice, but escaped shortly after. Mr. LOWELL's regiment was one of those which had constant work, taking an active part in the Peninsula campaign, being engaged in the Seven Days' Fight. Mr. LOWELL participated in the quelling of the Draft Riot in New York, in 1863, and was also in that famous protracted siege at Morris Island, Charleston Harbor. Discharged in November, 1864.

A. N. LUFKIN.

Enlisted, August 6, 1862, in the Second Maine; transferred in April, 1865, to Twentieth Maine, and assigned to Battery I, Fifth United States Artillery; assigned to Fifth Massachusetts Light Artillery in July, 1863, and returned to the Twentieth Maine Infantry, March 31, 1864, and promoted to Corporal on that date; was made Captain Forty-fifth United States Colored Troops, July 7, 1864. Captain LUFKIN served through the campaigns of Antietam, Fredericksburgh, Gettysburgh, and the Richmond campaign of 1864. Served in the department of the Rio Grande with his regiment, being in command for a while. Was mustered out November 4, 1865. Farmer at East Orrington, Maine.

C. K. LUCE, Second Maine Infantry.

E. D. LANPHER, Sixth Maine Infantry.

J. H. LEWIS, Nineteenth Maine Infantry.

W. H. LOUD, Twenty-fourth Maine Infantry.

WILLIAM MONTGOMERY.

Captain MONTGOMERY was landlord of the boarding-house in September, 1861, and, at the head of a platoon who boarded with him, enlisted on September 20, in the First Maine Cavalry.

He was made Second Lieutenant upon the organization of the Company; was promoted to First Lieutenant, and again to Captain. Was wounded at the spirited affair at Aldie, causing a partial loss of the use of his left arm, and again at St. Mary's Church, in the groin. Captain MONTGOMERY served in the campaigns and battles of his most gallant regiment, which is a certificate of hard, constant, brilliant service. By general order the regiment is entitled to have inscribed upon its banners the names of more engagements than any other organization of the armies of the United States. Captain MONTGOMERY was emphatically a fighting soldier, always volunteering, always on forlorn hopes, ever taking active part in extra duty. Fear was not a constituent part of his composition, and scores of times has he led us in the face of the enemy, against the wishes of other officers. I could give you almost innumerable instances of his personal bravery, but for that he would not thank me. He was mustered out as Brevet-Major, Nov. 25, 1864.

DAVID MARSTON.

Belonged to the Twenty-eighth Maine, having enlisted, September 10, 1862. He was in the Department of the South, and was discharged, August 31, 1863. He died of disease contracted in the Army—the Southern swamps being fatal to so many New England men—February 22, 1873.

J. B. MCKINLEY.

Lieutenant MCKINLEY joined the Sixth Maine Infantry at its organization, May 29, 1861. He became a member of the Regimental Band, returning to the ranks the following October. December 13, he was promoted to Second Sergeant; January 28, 1862, to Second Lieutenant; and June 4, 1862, to First Lieutenant. He was wounded, May 3, 1863, at Chancellorsville; returned to his regiment, and was killed in the battle of Rappahannock Station, November 7, 1863. He was through the Peninsula campaign, Antietam, Fredericksburgh, Chancellorsville, and Gettysburgh.

FRED T. MOORE.

Served as a member of the Fourteenth Maine, enlisting, March, 1865. Mustered out, November 1, 1865.

WILLIAM O. McDONALD.

Lieutenant McDONALD's service was in the Department of the South, he having been a member of the Twenty-sixth Maine. He enlisted, September 10, 1862, and was made Second Lieutenant. He participated in the campaign of Western Louisiana, including the battle of Irish Bend, after which intermittent fever prostrated him. He was mustered out of the service, August 17, 1863. Mr. McDONALD is now clerk and treasurer of the city of Ellsworth, Maine.

J. M. MOORE, First United States Infantry.

J. G. MOORE, Fifth Maine Infantry.

GEORGE T. MARSH, Fifteenth Maine Infantry.

WILLIAM MAYO, Twelfth Maine Infantry.

C. N. MAYO, First Maine Cavalry.

HENRY MARR, Second Maine Infantry.

JOHN MILLER, Fourth Maine Infantry.

SAMUEL MORGAN, Fifth Maine Infantry.

LUTHER MADDOCKS, Eleventh Maine Infantry.

B. C. NICHOLS.

Mr. NICHOLS entered the service, August, 1862, as a nine months' man, in the Twenty-sixth Maine. Served his full time in the swamps of Louisiana, being discharged with his regiment. Mr. NICHOLS is now engaged in one of the most honorable and responsible occupations of life, — teaching, — in North Vassalboro', Maine, endeavoring to implant and develop those ideas in the minds of the rising generation, the fruition of which shall make war impossible.

J. E. NICHOLS.

Was a member of the Twenty-first Maine, and detailed as Commissary's Clerk. General trader at Round Pond, Maine.

HORATIO P. NASH.

Enlisted in the First Maine Heavy Artillery, June 13, 1862. He participated in all the engagements of that regiment, up to the assault on Petersburg, where he was instantly killed on the third day, June 18, 1864.

Lieutenant A. E. NICKERSON, Nineteenth Maine Infantry.

JOHN W. PARSONS.

Became a member of the Seventh Maine, June 3, 1861. June 1, 1862, was made regimental Sergeant-Major, and was killed at Antietam, September 17, 1862. Major Hyde, of his regiment, at the time of his death, wrote to the Portland Press, "Your correspondent, 'Aroostook,' JOHN W. PARSONS, Sergeant-Major of the regiment, was mortally wounded while gallantly charging with his regiment, in the battle of Antietam. His remains lie buried in the orchard where so many of his comrades offered up their lives for their country. His last words were, 'Tell my father I died fighting for the old flag.' He was a young man of fine ability, and was perseveringly working his way to future distinction. His bravery in the morning's fight would have decided his future promotion, had not the fiercer battle of evening ended his life and hopes." The Surgeon writes, "When told that his wound was mortal, he was perfectly calm. He labored nearly all night to complete the monthly report of the regiment, and expressed his great satisfaction that it was done." Colonel Mason says, "His death was the greatest loss I sustained that eventful day."

F. L. PALMER.

Became a member of the Fourth Maine, September 9, 1861. He was constantly with his regiment, and was wounded by a Minnie ball, through the right lung and left hand, in that famous "midnight" charge at Chancellorsville, on the night of May 2, 1863. Was taken prisoner at the same time, remaining in the hands of the enemy thirteen days. By reason of these wounds, was discharged in October, 1863, and is now Postmaster at Monroe, Maine.

A. H. PALMER.

Mr. PALMER enlisted in the Twenty-eighth Maine, in September, 1862, it being a nine months' organization. Served most of the time as Commissary's Clerk. He participated in the sanguinary attack upon Port Hudson, under General Banks, and at the brilliant affair of Donaldsonville, La.

STEPHEN H. POWELL.

Enlisted as a member of the Twentieth Maine, July 25, 1862, being made a non-commissioned officer. Being deprived of health, resigned, that others might have chance of promotion. For a series of years has been the very successful Principal of the High School at Orono, Maine.

WALTER L. PARKER.

Mr. PARKER entered the Fifteenth Maine Regiment, February 15, 1865. In May he was transferred to the South, and was clerk in the Provost Marshal's Department at Georgetown, S.C. till October 10, when he was discharged, there being, happily, no more use for his services. Merchant at Dedham, Maine.

H. F. PORTER.

Captain PORTER became a member of the Eighteenth Maine, August 2, 1862, and was appointed Fourth Sergeant of Company K. January, 1863, was detached from regiment, and ordered to Maine on recruiting service, continuing on that duty and in the office of the Provost Marshal at the State Capitol till September; then returning to his regiment, and acting as Company Clerk till promoted to Orderly Sergeant in December. January 26, 1864, was promoted to Second Lieutenant, and acted as Post Adjutant at Fort Cameron, on the Potomac. March 23, was advanced to First Lieutenant, and was detailed as Acting Adjutant. He participated in the heavy fighting of his regiment, from the Potomac to the James, and on June 18, 1864, at an assault on the works before Petersburg, near the "O'Hare House," was wounded in the right arm, necessitating amputation at the shoulder. He was commissioned Captain, June 21, and was detailed as a member of a General Court Martial at Portland, Me. Was discharged December 10, 1864, and is now Inspector of Customs, at Pembroke, Maine.

ALBERT N. PENDLETON.

Enlisted in the Twenty-sixth Maine, September 10, 1862; was taken prisoner at Brashear City, La., soon exchanged, and died on his way home, at Mound City, Ill., August 5, 1863, of disease contracted in the service.

J. JOHN PAGE.

Dr. PAGE early became a soldier, enlisting in the Sixth Maine, in April, 1861. He contracted the rheumatic fever in Chickahominy Swamp, and was discharged, December 18, 1862. Is now Assistant Surgeon in the United States Navy.

CHARLES H. PRATT.

Was an original member of the Third Maine Infantry, enlisting, May 30, 1861. Discharged for disability, May 28, 1862. Now in the furniture manufacturing business at Waterville, Maine.

J. W. PALMER, Second Maine Cavalry.

EDWARD PALMER, Fourth Maine Infantry.

FRED S. PALMER, Fourth Maine Infantry.

A. H. PALMER, Twenty-eighth Maine Infantry.

WILLIAM PIERCE, First Veteran Battalion.

GEORGE PIERCE, unassigned.

CHARLES E. PARKER, Eighth Maine Infantry.

Lieutenant W. P. PLAISTED, Eleventh Maine Infantry.

GEORGE W. PILLSBURY, Twelfth Maine Infantry.

Lieutenant ORA PEARSON, Thirteenth Maine Infantry.

NATHANIEL W. PINKHAM, Eighteenth Maine Infantry.

RUSSELL T. PERKINS, Nineteenth Maine Infantry.

CHARLES E. PHILLIPS, Thirty-second Maine Infantry.

G. H. RUGGLES.

Lieutenant RUGGLES became a member of the Eighteenth Maine, August 21, 1862, and was appointed Second Sergeant. His view of the war, its primary causes and probable issue were ever of the higher plane of thought, and into the strife he put his judgment and duty, as well as patriotism. He fully realised that no pastime was theirs, and though during the first two years of the war he was not in actual campaigning, the short but terrible experience of 1864 showed the hard and desperate work to be done. His advancement was assured had he survived. He was promoted to First Sergeant, February 28, 1863, and to Second Lieutenant, January 18, 1864. He chafed at confinement in defences, and though he was marching to certain death, he hailed the order to the front gladly. He passed successfully through the initiatory battles of the campaign of the Army of the Potomac, in 1864, to fall, instantly killed, before Petersburg, June 18, with one hundred and fifteen of his comrades, while four hundred and ninety others filled out the list of wounded. Numerous extracts from letters, written home and to friends of dead comrades might be given, all breathing the same lofty spirit of duty prevailing over personal inclination. It was my good fortune to know Lieut. RUGGLES intimately, and his name stands well up on a bright list of student soldiers.

AUGUSTINE E. RIDEOUT.

Was enrolled in the United States Navy, August 16, 1864, and died in service at Pensacola, December 7, 1864.

LINCOLN RHOADES.

Enlisted in the Twenty-second Maine, September 10, 1862, and was made First Sergeant. He died, June 6, 1863, of sun-stroke. H. P. Torsey, LL.D., President of Maine Wesleyan Seminary and Female College, writes of him: "Of the many thousands of students who have been under my care, but few have equalled, none excelled him in Christian firmness, meekness, and faithfulness." He formed a temperance and anti-swearing league in the regiment, and was ever active in all good works.

JOHN E. RICHARDSON, Second Maine Infantry.

ALBERT RICHARDSON, State Guards.

ALBION RICHARDSON, Seventeenth Maine Infantry.

ANSON J. ROBINSON, First Maine Cavalry.

JAMES W. ROBINSON, Second Maine Cavalry.

GEORGE B. ROBINSON, Eighteenth Maine Infantry.

S. J. ROBINSON, Twenty-second Maine Infantry.

BELA R. REYNOLDS, Sixth Maine Infantry.

GEORGE W. REED, First Army Corps.

GEORGE A. ROGERS, First Maine Cavalry.

BENJAMIN F. SMART.

FREEMAN SMART became a member of the Second Maine Infantry, May 13, 1861. He was immediately promoted to Corporal; then to Third Sergeant, October 1, 1861; and to First Sergeant, January 22, 1862. He participated in first Bull Run, the siege of Yorktown, and the Peninsula campaign, till the battle of Hanover Court House, May 27, 1862, where he was shot through the left breast, dying in a few moment It is with peculiar pleasure, saddened by the necessity, that I am able to give some details of this sterling man's career. His father writes, "When FREEMAN was quite young, he manifested a strong desire to obtain an education; but not feeling myself able at that time to keep him at school, I took him with me, at fifteen years of age, and taught him the mason's trade. He worked at his trade four years, and he was then so anxious to go to school that I consented for him to leave his business. He selected the 'East Maine Conference Seminary,' where he intended to prepare himself for college, and where he spent the most of his time till the war broke out." SMART became a very close friend of mine, at the Seminary, in 1860 and 1861. His balance of mind was a constant wonder to me. His counsel was invariably wise. Some of us more hot-headed youths, were frequently kept from embroiling ourselves, by his "wait a little." In our many fiery discussions in our rooms and in society meetings, upon the coming contest, when our zeal outran our discretion, his voice and manner was ever the beacon that gave us our bearings. Some thought him not so enthusiastic as one ought to be at such a time; but, when the hour came to try men's souls, he was not found wanting. He was an indefatigable worker at his books; always persistent to know the reason why, he never left a subject with any doubts in regard to its meaning or application. At the time of the small-pox scare at the Seminary, in the fall of 1860, he remained at his work, and after some half-dozen of us got settled in the ladies' part of the building, he said, "Now Webb, we've a fair field and we'll turn out the work." Walking to and from the neighboring grove, or sitting on the steps, we have discussed every subject, and scores of his ringing, epigrammatic sentences have remained with me to this day. His father further writes: "Soon after the first call for troops, FREEMAN came home and informed me that he felt called upon to leave his school and enlist. I very well knew he would do whatever he thought was his duty, regardless of consequences. He stopped at home but a short time, and the next we heard from him he was a soldier." Of his military career, one of his commanding officers writes as follows: "From the time of his enlistment to the hour of his death, I was his most intimate associate, and know better than any other person all the incidents of his military life. He came, late one night, to the headquarters of the regiment in Bangor, saying that he had been to Portland to enlist in the First Maine Regiment, but finding that the Second Regiment was likely to leave the State for the front sooner than the other, he had come to join us. He was assigned to Company H, and was immediately made a Corporal, and very soon after was promoted to Sergeant. It soon became evident to all who knew him, that he was a born soldier, and in his first battle, the terrible Bull Run, he showed that he was a born leader. All through that terrible battle, SMART, as we all used to call him, was as cool and clear-headed as if on parade. I shall never forget how your boy shouted out to our Major, who was just at our left, 'Major Varney, the order is to fall back, but I shall never fall back a step as long as that flag remains there!' meaning our regimental colors, which were just at our right. In this battle, Colonel Jameson selected BENJAMIN to take a message to General Keyes, the commanding officer of the brigade. This errand took him over a field swept by Rebel artillery; but he went straight on his errand, and straight back again, seemingly without a fear. Ever after that, General Jameson was enthusiastic in his praise. On the twenty-seventh of May, 1862, the division to which our regiment was attached, was ordered to Hanover Court House, to form a junction with McDowell's corps. On our march your son said to me that the bullet was not run yet that would kill him. The Captain and Second Lieutenant of the company were absent on recruiting service: BENJAMIN at this time, was

First Sergeant, but he fully filled the places of the absent ones. The battle began about noon, and from that and on through the battle, he was cheering on the men, loading and firing, directing the stupid ones, quieting the nervous ones, and in every way showing himself to be the brave and cool soldier that every former time of trial had shown him to be. About four o'clock in the afternoon, while the fight was fiercest, BENJAMIN was standing between Captain Currier and myself, when I heard a heavy 'thud,' as if something had been struck, and at the same time a smothered exclamation. I looked around and saw your son sinking down and then lying upon his back. His eyes were looking into mine with a sort of surprised expression. I said, 'SMART, where are you hit?' He laid his right hand upon a bullet-hole in his left breast. I directed some of the men to take him to the rear, which was immediately done. The men told me afterwards that he died quietly, without a struggle, before they picked him up. There was no look of agony or fear in his face, only the surprised look I have spoken of. The next morning we wrapped him in his blanket and laid him beside his comrades, and I never saw the earth close over a braver, truer soldier and friend than then; and we silently and sorrowfully marched away and left him in the enemy's land. For many days after, when we wanted to say a man had true courage, we would say, 'He is as brave as our SMART was.' His army life was only about a year, but I could write almost a book-full of incidents and sayings of his. If he had lived, he would have risen rapidly, for all his superior officers appreciated his worth and value to the country. While we were in winter quarters at Hall's Hill, Virginia, in the winter of 1861-62, he was offered a commission as Adjutant in the Fourteenth Maine, but he said it was more honor to be a Sergeant in the 'Grand old Second,' than a commissioned officer in a new regiment."

SAUNDERS G. SPOONER.

Entered the army as a member of Ninth Maine Volunteers, September 15, 1861. Was promoted to Hospital Steward. Re-enlisted, and was detailed as Post Hospital Steward, at Magnolia, N.C. Was discharged, July 15, 1865. Practising medicine at Princeton, Maine.

H. N. P. SPOONER.

Captain SPOONER was another member of that hard-fighting and terribly-suffering regiment, the Eighteenth Maine, having enlisted the 6th of July, 1862. He was appointed Sergeant, and promoted to Lieutenant in December, and received a Captain's commission in May, 1864. He took part in all the sanguinary battles in which his regiment was engaged; and in front of Petersburg, on the memorable 18th of June, he was severely wounded in the right leg and arm, dying in consequence, July 10, 1864.

CHARLES G. SAWYER.

Enlisted, September 21, 1864, in the Thirty-first Maine; was wounded April 2, 1865, in the final charge at Petersburg, by grape shot crushing the left arm, necessitating amputation. He was discharged June 23, 1865. Engaged in the business of canning vegetables, at Wilton, Maine.

HUDSON SAWYER.

Mr. SAWYER was one of the number who enlisted directly from the Seminary, in October, 1861, and became a member of the renowned D Company, First Maine Cavalry. He was appointed Company bugler, and promoted to Chief Regimental Musician in December, 1862. A "General Order" mustering out those officials, left him again a citizen in February, 1863.

In July, 1863, he became a member of the First Maine Heavy Artillery, being detailed at Headquarters, Superintendency of Recruits, at Augusta. Joined his regiment in January, 1864, and was promoted to Quartermaster-Sergeant soon after. Promoted to First Lieutenant, September 9, 1864, and commissioned Captain, April 25, 1865. Brevetted Major, in March, 1865, for, as the commission reads, "meritorious services during the war." In November, 1864, he was detailed as Aid to General De Trobriand, commanding Brigade. In June, 1865, Major SAWYER was detailed as Provost Marshal of the Twenty-second Army Corps. Mustered out, September, 1865. Major SAWYER participated in the greater portion of the hard-fought battles of the last years of the war, in the Army of the Potomac; was wounded in four places at the assault upon the works before Petersburg, in June, 1864. Major SAWYER was one of those soldiers who served in a variety of capacities, and under many different officers, and was never found wanting. He is now an Episcopal clergyman at Hallowell, Maine.

JOHN SAWYER.

Mr. SAWYER became a member of the Second Maine, in April, 1861; was promoted to Corporal, then to Sergeant, and was discharged, June 9, 1863; was wounded at Gaine's Hill, in the hand, and at second Bull Run, in the foot. He re-enlisted, February 23, 1865, and was discharged again, February 23, 1866. Farmer at North Newbury, Maine.

GEORGE L. STOVER.

Became a member of the Eighteenth Maine, in May, 1862; was promoted to Corporal. Tiring of barrack duty at Washington, he applied to be transferred to the Navy, wishing to find more active service. At the earnest solicitation of the Colonel, he remained with his regiment. On the sixteenth of July, 1864, he was shot, while an advanced picket in front of Petersburg, and instantly killed.

HENRY C. SNOW.

Captain SNOW enlisted, in April, 1861, becoming a member of the Seventh Maine; promoted to Second Lieutenant, August 25, 1861, and to Captain, September 18, 1862. Served through the Peninsula campaign, and was discharged, February, 1863. Was appointed Ensign in the Navy, in October, 1864, serving under the gallant Admiral Worden, also being on duty in the torpedo service. Discharged, August 25, 1865, and was appointed Lieutenant in the Revenue Marine Service, serving five years. Captain SNOW is now postmaster at Brewer, Maine.

GEORGE H. SNOWMAN.

Sergeant SNOWMAN was one of the first to become a citizen soldier, enlisting as a member of the Sixth Maine, April 28, 1861. He was promoted to Sergeant, May 10, and made a member of the non-commissioned staff, as Commissary Sergeant, July 15. Discharged, at expiration of term of service, August 15, 1864. Sailmaker, Bucksport, Maine.

JAMES O. SEAVEY.

Enlisted, August 12, 1862, as a member of the Nineteenth Maine. He participated in the campaigns of the Army of the Potomac, being wounded in the face at Bristol Station, October 14, 1863; promoted to Sergeant, in May, 1863; and discharged, in June, 1865. Vessels' spar-maker, at Boothbay, Maine.

FRANK SHERMAN.

Professor SHERMAN was quietly cultivating his farm, when it occurred to him, on July 28, 1862, that he must be a civilian no longer. No sooner thought than done, he becoming a member of the Ninth Maine Infantry. He was promoted to Corporal, September 1, 1863. At first Fredericksburgh, December 11, 1862, he was wounded by a rifle ball in the right leg. At the Wilderness, May 5, 1864, he was wounded in the left arm, necessitating its amputation, and at the same time in the thigh. Was discharged, March 17, 1865. Professor SHERMAN was graduated from the Scientific Department of Dartmouth College, in 1870; then became Instructor of Mathematics in the Worcester Free Institute of Industrial Science; was chosen Associate Professor of Mathematics in Dartmouth College, in April, 1871, and full Professor, in June, 1873, which honored position he still holds.

THOMAS B. SPEAR.

Was a member of the Fourth Maine, having enlisted, April 21, 1861. Detailed upon balloon reconnoitering service. Discharged, October 13, 1862. Present occupation, manufacturer of lime, at Rockland, Maine.

HILLMAN SMITH.

Captain SMITH entered the service, August 28, 1861, as one of the Eighth Maine; commissioned Second Lieutenant, September 4; First Lieutenant, January 16, 1862; and Captain, September 1, 1863. He served through the campaigns of Hilton Head, Fort Fisher, Morris Island, and the battles of the Army of the Potomac, in 1864. Was discharged, October 19, 1864. Grocer, at Lewiston, Maine.

J. ADAMS SMITH.

In September, 1862, was appointed Assistant Paymaster in the United States Navy, and ordered to the sloop "Kearsarge." He was on board at the famous fight with the "Alabama," off Cherbourg, and, though it was out of his line of duty, commanded a division of the men during the engagement, and was officially commended by Captain Winslow for conspicuous bravery and service. In August, 1863, was promoted to the full rank of Paymaster, and is now serving in Pacific waters with the East India Squadron.

C. EDGAR SMITH.

Mr. SMITH entered the Sixtieth Massachusetts Infantry, from Yale College, in July, 1864, and was mustered out in the following November. Attorney-at-Law, 56 Wall Street, New York.

LEROY S. SCOTT.

Lieutenant SCOTT entered the service as one of the Nineteenth Maine, July 23, 1862. He was made First Sergeant at the organization of the regiment, and was commissioned Lieutenant, November 27. He served with his regiment in the campaigns of the Army of the Potomac till he was wounded, through the left thigh, at Gettysburgh, at the close of the first day's engagement. As he was being carried from the field, he was again wounded in the right knee, necessitating amputation. The dissevered limb commenced bleeding a few days after, making a second amputation necessary. This was also unsuccessful, and he died on the thirteenth, giving as a parting message, when he was assured that he could survive but a few hours, "Tell them at home I die in the discharge of my duty."

CYRUS S. STEWART.

Enlisted in the Twenty-sixth Maine, September 1, 1862; died of typhoid fever, in hospital, at New Orleans, June 19, 1863.

A. J. STUART.

Mr. STUART belonged to the First Maine Heavy Artillery, having enlisted, December 15, 1863. He was wounded at the battle of the Wilderness, and died in consequence, August 5, 1864.

GEORGE B. STINCHFIELD.

Mr. STINCHFIELD became a member of the First Maine Cavalry, February 28, 1862. He was taken prisoner in General Banks' campaign in the Shenandoah Valley, at Middletown, May 24; was in prison at Lynchburg, and Belle Isle, Richmond, until exchanged, September 13, 1862. He was detailed as clerk in the General Hospital at Annapolis, Md., and subsequently as clerk in the Adjutant-General's Department at Washington. He was discharged from the Volunteer Service, and re-enlisted in the Regular Army, with the rank of Sergeant, November 9, 1863, and was discharged thence, March 31, 1864, having received an appointment as clerk in the Adjutant-General's Department. Mr. STINCHFIELD is now in business at Saginaw, Mich., and Boulder, Col., living at Boulder.

CHARLES E. SMITH, State Guards.

JOSEPH A. SMITH, Third Maine Battery.

EDWIN SMITH, Seventh Maine Infantry.

ROBERT SMITH, Ninth Maine Infantry.

GEORGE W. SMITH, Eleventh Maine Infantry.

LEWIS SMITH, Fourteenth Maine Infantry.

ROBERT SMITH, Eighteenth Maine Infantry.

LYMAN SMITH, Sixteenth Maine Infantry.

Captain GEORGE W. SMITH, Twenty-fourth Maine Infantry.

HENRY SWETT, unassigned.

FRANK SWETT, United States Navy.

JOHN SAWYER, Second Maine Infantry.

J. F. SERGEANT, Second Maine Infantry.

OTIS G. SPEAR, Fourth Maine Infantry.

FRED A. SAUNDERS, Thirteenth Maine Infantry.

JAMES SIMMONS, Fourteenth Maine Infantry.

GEORGE W. SYLVESTER, Fifteenth Maine Infantry.

CHARLES A. STAPLES, Twenty-fourth Maine Infantry.

W. F. SHERMAN, Thirty-first Maine Infantry.

STEPHEN C. TALBOT.

Colonel TALBOT became a member of the Eighteenth Maine, July 11, 1862, and was made Second Lieutenant, August 21, 1862, and First Lieutenant and Adjutant, November 12, 1863. March 26, 1864, he was promoted to a Majorship of the Thirty-first Maine, and was commissioned Lieutenant-Colonel of the same regiment, May 20, 1864. He participated in that almost unparalleled campaign from the Rapidan to the James, and was mustered out of service on account of physical disability, August 6, 1864. Colonel TALBOT is now located in New York, a member of the commission house of Chase, Talbot & Co.

JESSE TREAT, Sixth Maine Infantry.

RICHARD H. TINKER, Eighth Maine Infantry.

HENRY TAPLEY, Fifteenth Maine Infantry.

H. A. TILTON, Twentieth Maine Infantry.

A. G. TURNER, Twentieth Maine Infantry.

WILLIAM TROTT, Thirty-first Maine Infantry.

CLARENCE D. ULMER, First Maine Cavalry.

WYMAN W. ULMER, Fourth Maine Infantry.

AUGUSTUS H. ULMER, Twenty-Eighth Maine Infantry.

JOHN W. WEST.

Special authority was given by Congress to Colonel Baker to raise a regiment of Cavalry, to be called the First District of Columbia Cavalry. Eight Companies of this regiment were enlisted in Maine, and Mr. WEST became a member, January 4, 1864, being appointed First Sergeant of Company M. Sergeant WEST was wounded in the thigh at the battle of Dinwiddie Court House, March 31, 1865, and was discharged in consequence, June 5, following. Dealer in worked granite, Lewiston, Maine.

CHARLES E. WORDING.

Enlisted in the United States Navy, August 12, 1864; he was present at the taking of Mobile, and was discharged, September 18, 1865.

ALBERT H. WAUGH.

Mr. WAUGH enlisted in the Marine Corps, February 15, 1865, for four years. At the close of the war he procured a substitute, and was discharged. Teacher, at Levant, Maine.

PRESTON B. WING.

Mr. WING joined the First Maine Cavalry, September 24, 1861; was promoted to Sergeant, and discharged for disability, April 14, 1862. Hardware merchant, Lewiston, Maine.

IRVING A. WARDWELL.

Mr. WARDWELL, on September 10, 1862, became a member of the Twenty-second Maine. March 8, 1863, he was commissioned Chaplain of the Twenty-eighth Maine. He succumbed to the malarial fevers of the Louisiana swamps, and died, July 22, being buried in the village churchyard at Donaldsonville. His last official service was to perform funeral rites over the remains of his commanding officer.

V. P. WARDWELL.

Lieutenant WARDWELL was a member of the Sixth Maine Regiment, enlisting April 29, 1861. He was promoted to First Lieutenant, and discharged for physical disability, May 30, 1862. Lieutenant WARDWELL was the first man of his town to place his name upon the enlisting rolls, and one of the first three to enlist from the Seminary, — B. F. Smart, killed at Hanover Court House, and Dr. A. S. Condon, resident physician, Union Pacific Central Railroad, Ogden, Utah, being the other two.

EMERY S. WARDWELL.

Enlisted July 25, 1862, as a member of the Eighteenth Maine; was mustered in as Second Lieutenant; promoted to First Lieutenant, in February, 1863; mustered out, July 11, 1864.

GEORGE E. WALLACE.

A member of the Twenty-sixth Maine, enlisting September 10, 1862, and was discharged, August 17, 1863; re-enlisted in the Ninth Maine, March 20, 1865, and was discharged, May 15, following. Now Attorney and Counsellor-at-Law, Belfast, Maine.

H. W. WISWELL, State Guards.

C. A. D. WISWELL, Twenty-fifth Maine Infantry.

A. H. WETHERBEE, First Maine Infantry.

CHARLES H. WEBBER, First Maine Cavalry.

L. H. WHITEHOUSE, Second Maine Cavalry.

J. F. WHITMORE, United States Navy.

H. R. WESTON, First Battalion.

H. L. WARE, Fourth Maine Infantry.

N. B. WEBB, First Maine Cavalry.

A. A. WATERMAN, Eighteenth Maine Infantry.

JOHN WALKER, Jr., Twenty-first Maine Infantry.

F. E. WARDWELL, Twenty-eighth Maine Infantry.

C. E. WOOD, Thirty-first Maine Infantry.

BENJAMIN F. YOUNG.

Enlisted as a musician in the Fourth Maine, May 12, 1861; discharged, July 19, 1864. Teacher of vocal and instrumental music, Lincolnville, Me.

GEORGE W. YATES, Sixth Maine Infantry.

A. J. YOUNG, Twenty-sixth Maine Infantry.

ORGANIZATIONS REPRESENTED.

First Maine Cavalry . . . . .	17 men.
Second Maine Cavalry . . . . .	3 "
First District of Columbia Cavalry . . . . .	7 "
Second Maine Battery . . . . .	2 "
Third Maine Battery . . . . .	6 "
First Maine Infantry . . . . .	1 man.
Second Maine Infantry . . . . .	14 men.
Third Maine Infantry . . . . .	2 "
Fourth Maine Infantry . . . . .	14 "
Fifth Maine Infantry . . . . .	3 "
Sixth Maine Infantry . . . . .	16 "
Seventh Maine Infantry . . . . .	6 "
Eighth Maine Infantry . . . . .	6 "
Ninth Maine Infantry . . . . .	5 "
Tenth Maine Infantry . . . . .	2 "
Eleventh Maine Infantry . . . . .	5 "
Twelfth Maine Infantry . . . . .	2 "
Thirteenth Maine Infantry . . . . .	5 "
Fourteenth Maine Infantry . . . . .	12 "
Fifteenth Maine Infantry . . . . .	7 "
Sixteenth Maine Infantry . . . . .	9 "
Seventeenth Maine Infantry . . . . .	7 "
Eighteenth Maine Infantry . . . . .	27 "
Nineteenth Maine Infantry . . . . .	12 "
Twentieth Maine Infantry . . . . .	6 "
Twenty-first Maine Infantry . . . . .	4 "
Twenty-second Maine Infantry . . . . .	7 "
Twenty-fourth Maine Infantry . . . . .	5 "
Twenty-fifth Maine Infantry . . . . .	2 "
Twenty-sixth Maine Infantry . . . . .	12 "
Twenty-eighth Maine Infantry . . . . .	10 "
Twenty-ninth Maine Infantry . . . . .	2 "
Thirty-first Maine Infantry . . . . .	13 "
Thirty-second Maine Infantry . . . . .	1 man.
First United States Infantry . . . . .	1 "
First Veterans . . . . .	2 men.
First Army Corps . . . . .	1 man.
Fifth United States Battery . . . . .	1 "
Fifth Massachusetts Battery . . . . .	1 "
Forty-fifth United States Colored Infantry . . . . .	1 "
Fifty-sixth Massachusetts Infantry . . . . .	1 "
Sixtieth Massachusetts Infantry . . . . .	1 "
Second Kansas Infantry . . . . .	1 "
State Guards . . . . .	7 men.

Navy . . . . .	14 men.
Marine Corps . . . . .	1 man.
Major-General . . . . .	1 “
Unassigned . . . . .	3 men.

Total number in service . . . . .	286
Infantry . . . . .	236
Cavalry . . . . .	27
Artillery . . . . .	8
Navy . . . . .	15

Total service represented . . . . .	536 years.
Average service . . . . .	22½ months.
Shortest service . . . . .	2 months.
Longest service . . . . .	5 years.

Wounded . . . . .	26, or 11 per cent.
Totally disabled . . . . .	21, or 8 per cent.
Killed in action . . . . .	11, or 4 per cent.
Died of disease contracted in the service . . . . .	15, or 5 per cent.
Died of wounds . . . . .	3
Died in prison . . . . .	2

Of the number, thirty, or nearly ten per cent., were promoted, and twenty-seven of those more than once.

I have no record of a draft or a resignation among the number.

Of the male students above nineteen years of age, from the opening of the Seminary up to 1865, thirty-five per cent. entered the service in some capacity.

---

I have given to you names of our fellow students who participated in the great civil war of the United States. I have given dates of enlistment, lengths of service, and promotions; have told you if they were wounded, or in what battle they fell; have told you if they faithfully served in the ranks their many years, or if courage, ability, or fortuitous circumstances sent them up higher; but, is that a record? To give a complete record of the army life of these men, would be to lay bare to your gaze their daily inner life for years. Of that, I could tell you nothing. I could tell you nothing of the partings, the sacrifices, the losses. I could tell you nothing of the hopes and struggles, of the longings and disappointments of these men. Nothing of the long years of waiting for the war to cease, through a conquered peace; of the wistful looks to their Northern homes, the next moment to turn to their terrible duties; of the painful languishing in Southern prisons; of the burial service of the son or brother, brought back from the carnage to be laid away among friends; of the long lines of mounds on Southern hillsides, marked "unknown." Nothing of the message for those at home, as his life-blood ebbed away; nothing of the instantaneous leaving-all in the full flush of life. I could give you no comprehensive idea of the march, the picket, the charge. How could I portray the scenes in the hospital or prison? What could I say of the many falling in their first charge, or of those who served through long years, and at the last fell, sealing the very terms of final surrender with their blood? It is with a large sense of the meagreness of what I have been able to do, that I have presented you a few bare facts. I could not expect to do any one justice. But, somewhere, in some heart, is written a full record of each comrade, and wherein I have failed to note his career to the many, it is luminous to some one. Among the number we find all ranks, from the Private to the Major-General. Each one, whether or no his record be written by my pen, will receive his full meed of praise from those who know his deservings best. The country could not have done without one of them. Each acted well his part, — there all the honor lies.

LIBRARY OF CONGRESS

0 013 703 313 6 ●